PEOPLE DON'T WANT TO BE HUMBUGGED BUT THEY ARE SOMETIMES

Quite a few farmers bought a batch of cheap, worthless, supposed-to-be condition powder, and got stung by the slick tongued agents they may never see again. They paid 12c a pound for what bran filler and ground up oil cake, flavored with oils. They fed it to their horses every day for months when they could have fed the whole batch at one meal, without any good or bad results, (its beyond the word humbug.) They don't know that one bottle of is worth more than five pounds of the best condition powder sold to-day. It has the powder beat a thousand ways. You can give it on the tongue, in the feed, or in the drinking water. It works like a charm, one tablespoonful twice a day. One bottle lasts 16 days. Costs you just 50 cents, and the results are good. Your horse will prove this. Will you give it a trial? It's sold on a guarantee.

It's The Greatest Money Value of the Times. TRY IT.

CARRIERS WALK 40 MILES DAILY

Gettysburg's Town Mail Carriers Cover that Much Ground in Making their Daily Rounds. Work Faster than in Nearby Towns.

The three city carriers who daily deliver mail to the homes and business places of Gettysburg walk 40 miles each day or an average of 13 1/3 miles each.

During a period of six days the Post Office Department required note to be taken of a number of different things and some interesting figures are the result. The city carriers in Gettysburg carry an average of 92 1/2 pounds a day, made up of 848 pieces. In six days the three carriers delivered 15253 pieces of mail weighing 1670 pounds. The local office has 4180 patrons served by carriers. This number includes almost three fourths of the students in the various institutions, a very small proportion of the Seminary, College and Prep boys getting their mail at the office. Each carrier serves an average of 1393 people. There are 1100 houses, or other stopping places making an average of 367 for each carrier. For collection there are 33 letter boxes, one package and two combination boxes.

At all the nearby towns similar statistics have been taken. Gettysburg is ahead of some of her neighbors in several respects. In Chambersburg only 12 per cent of the patrons served have mail receptacles or slots in which the carriers may put their mail and thus save the time lost in waiting for an answer to a door bell. In Gettysburg there are 50 per cent of the houses so equipped.

The carriers were timed in the matter of "routing" their mail—getting it in order for delivery. Gettysburg's carriers average 24 pieces a minute. Chambersburg's 19 and Waynesboro's 17.

MODEL ORCHARDS BILL

A bill aimed to aid the practical development of horticulture in Pennsylvania, by establishing model orchards for demonstrations and experimental work, was introduced in the House Thursday by Representative Meyer, of Centre. The measure is of much interest to the agriculturists and horticulturists, and it provides for a combination of the present model orchard work of the Bureau of Economic Zoology of the Department of Agriculture and the experimental orchard work formerly conducted by Professor Suface at his farm near Mechanicsburg.

The bill authorizes the secretary of agriculture to establish, through the office of the economic zoologist, small model orchards of various features of orchard management, pest suppression and good crop production upon a modern economic basis.

These model orchards are to be located in each of the counties where there is an established horticultural society, which society in co-operation with the secretary of agriculture and the Bureau of Economic Zoology, will select the site and purchase the ground for the orchard.

The plantings and the care of these orchards, the tests and the experimentation is to be conducted by the Bureau of Economic Zoology, and after enough fruit has been sold to pay for the costs of operation and gathering, the surplus fruit is to be sent to the nearest institution receiving state aid.

G. H. S. SENIORS PRESENT PLAY

"Among the Breakers" Produced in New High School Building in Presence of Many Friends. Good Play well Acted.

The Senior Class of the Gettysburg High School entertained a large number of their friends in the new building Thursday evening when they produced "Among the Breakers."

A stage erected by the Alumni Association converted the assembly room into a small theatre and the stage setting, a room in a light keeper's house, was very well executed. The costumes and make-ups were all well gotten up and the play, an interesting two act drama with plenty of comedy intermingled, was a decided credit to all who took part and helped prepare for it.

John Blocher in the "heavy" role of David Murray, keeper of Fairpoint Light, and Richard Mishler as Hon. Bruce Hunter, deserve special mention. The comedy was handled by Ernie Ziegler and Earl Stallsmith, the former in an Irish role and the latter as a negro. Mr. Stallsmith's work was beyond criticism and could with difficulty be improved upon.

The young ladies all merited praise, Miss Olive Hoke, Miss Mary Sheads, Miss Sara Bigham, and Miss Blanche Weaner all contributing largely to the success of the play. Other parts were taken by Luther Musselman, Edgar Miller and Dorsey Weikert.

Between the acts there was a sailor chorus in which the following took part, Olive Hoke, Kathryn Sachs, Emma Thorn, Irene Stroup, Adele Valentine, Nellie Kelly, Blanche Weaner, Sara Bigham, Mary Sheads, Luther Musselman, Dorsey Weikert, Richard Mishler, Ernie Ziegler, John Blocher, Earl Stallsmith, Edgar Miller.

PAID IN FULL

In recent years a few plays have made such a big hit that two or three companies have been sent out in them, and in one instance four organizations were started, but the number lasted only a short time. Never has a play been in such demand for return engagements. In this respect it has a record unequalled in theatrical history. It has been played as many as five and six times in cities innumerable, and it is a wonderful illustration of its tremendous appeal that in every instance the audiences have been larger each time it has returned. Therefore its coming to this city will awaken deepest interest when at Walter's Theatre, Thursday, March 23.

THE FIRST STRAW HAT

It remained for St. Patrick's Day to bring out the first straw hat of 1911. It appeared this morning on a student wearing a green collar, necktie, shirt and numerous other verdant adornments. MRS. AUREL BATONYI.

Daughter of Frank Work, Multi-Millionaire.

DEATH OF FRANK WORK

Father of Mrs. Burke-Roche Batonyi Victim of Pneumonia.

New York, March 17.—Frank Work, the multi-millionaire railroad man and father of Mrs. Burke-Roche Batonyi, died at his home here of pneumonia. He was ninety-two years of age. It is understood he leaves an estate amounting to $200,000,000.

The late years of the multi-millionaire's life were made unhappy for him by his daughter's suit for divorce from Aurel Batonyi, the society horseman and whip. This was denied, but a separation was granted Mr. Batonyi in his counter suit for separation.

Miss Frances Work was twenty years old when, in 1880, she married James Boothby Burke-Roche. She lived with him in England for six years and then returned home to her father. Five years later she brought her suit for divorce.

The decree of divorce gave the custody of the three children, Cynthia, Edmund Maurice and Francis George, to the mother. The boys are twins.

James Burke-Roche resisted the Delaware divorce on the grounds that the marriage to a British citizen makes a foreign wife subject to British laws only. The American divorce is invalid under British law, and the husband can take the children whenever they are found within British jurisdiction.

Aurel Batonyi was superintendent of Mrs. Burke-Roche's farm, near Newport, R. I., when he married her in 1906. The suits of divorce and separation terminated in April, 1909. In the course of the testimony Batonyi said his wife left him in 1907.

REDMOND SEES UNIVERSAL PEACE

Leader of Irish Party Endorses Arbitration Suggestion.

BALFOUR PLEDGES AID

John Dillon, However, is Doubtful if Program Would Be to Advantage of Smaller Nations.

London, March 17.—John Redmond, chairman of the Irish party, presiding at the St. Patrick's Day banquet here, made a striking reference to the suggested universal arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

Towards the close of a loudly cheered speech, he quoted Grattan's saying in 1795, that Viceroy Lord Fitzwilliam was offering the British empire the affection of millions of Irish hearts, and said that the Irish people were making the same offer, and it would not be spurned as it was then.

He added: "Perchance that treaty of peace with Ireland may prove the forerunner, and in a certain sense, one of the contributory causes of another great treaty, whereby not merely the peace of the English and Irish peoples will be achieved, but whereby the peace of the civilized world may be safeguarded and maintained."

Balfour Pledges Support.

Sir Edward Grey's endorsement of President Taft's arbitration suggestion was seconded amid cheers in the house of commons by A. J. Balfour, the leader of the opposition, who declared that he saw no difficulty in the way of carrying out, first, such an arrangement between this country and the United States. Mr. Balfour said:

"The late government did its best to carry out any arbitration treaty with the United States. I hope that there is a general feeling in America that the time has come when these two great countries may at least be bound by treaty to refer all questions which could possibly produce anything so horrible as a war between them to some arbitration tribunal."

"The secretary for foreign affairs will find no heartier friends of such a policy than those in the Unionist party."

The first break in the chorus of approval to Sir Edward's proposals came from John Dillon, who described Sir Edward's speech as "a gigantic red herring most successfully drawn across the path of discussion of the naval estimates." There was, he said, nothing different in the Grey proposals from what appeared in the treaty Lord Salisbury tried to negotiate with the United States, except the importation of an offensive, defensive and coercive alliance against other powers.

He gravely doubted whether this would be found to be of advantage. The proposals made no provision for small nationalities struggling against injustice of seeking freedom. They referred only to mighty empires which were invited to combine for the purpose of coercing others who would not submit to arbitration.

FELL DOWN SHAFT

Miner Plunges Six Hundred Feet to His Death.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 17.—John A. Smith, a mine worker in the Lang-cliffe colliery at Avoca, near here, met a terrible death when he fell down the 600-foot shaft.

His body was so horribly mangled and crushed that identification was impossible, except by means of a tag in his pocket. He recently arrived from Europe, and it was the second day of his work in the mines. How he fell is unknown.

Peter Cornell, a lumberman, was killed by the collapse of a bridge over Little Wap Walloppen creek, near here. It broke beneath the weight of the wagon loaded with lumber. Cornell's back and neck were broken and one of his horses was drowned.

Dies After Jumping Rope.

New York, March 17.—Ten-year-old Elizabeth Mallin, of 10 First avenue, Long Island City, was the best rope jumper in her class in public school No. 4 at the noon recess, and shortly after she came into the classroom, flushed from the contest, the child dropped from her seat dead. Miss Grace L. Brodie, the teacher, noticed the little girl was excited and that her face was flushed when she came ramping in from recess. Death was due to over-exertion.

PAY MORE FOR SUMMER COAL

Producers Will Allow Only Half Usual April Reduction on Chestnut. Philadelphia, March 17.—Another added cost to living will be made by the large anthracite coal companies next Tuesday, when the presidents of the big corporations meet in New York to fix the price of coal for April, according to reports now current among the retail coal dealers of this city. Instead of making the annual reduction of 50 cents a ton on coal for the month of April, on all sizes except pea coal, chestnut coal will be allowed a reduction of only 25 cents a ton.

This action, as contemplated by the anthracite coal companies, is charged to the increasing demand for his size of coal in recent years. Dealers assert it is unfair, and is another step in the direction of eliminating some of the sizes and the grading of family coal into two general sizes, that of range and furnace coal.

Coal dealers see in the anticipated failure of making the usual reduction a prospect of loss of business for the summer months, inasmuch as there will not be the same tendency to fill bins for winter use as if the usual 50 cents a ton reduction during April were in force.

CHINA AGREES TO DEMANDS OF RUSSIA

Is Now Drafting a Reply to the Ultimatum.

Peking, March 17.—The Chinese government declares its intention of agreeing to both points at issue with Russia, and is now drafting a reply to the recently received ultimatum, along this line.

The foreign board says that it is prepared to accept establishment of Russian consulates in the places specified by Russia, and also promises to take measures regarding Chinese monopolies in Mongolia, which will permit Russian subjects freedom in trade in Chinese goods as well as the goods of other countries.

The newspaper's are crying out against the instability of the government, and deplore the fact that the country possesses no navy, and has an ineffective army and an incapable foreign board. Petitions praying the throne to reconvene the imperial assembly are being circulated.

Conservation of the Teeth might well be made a political issue. Are the teeth not a national resource? The health of the nation depends upon the care of its teeth. Uncle Sam won't allow an enlistment in the Army or Navy until the teeth have been favorably passed upon, and, incidentally, Uncle Sam knows a good dentifrice. As any one in the Army and Navy about SOZODONT and prob by his answer.

SOZODONT

is wonderfully pure and sure; a mouth antiseptic; a deodorizer of delightful fragrance; a tonic for the teeth and gums; cleanses and preserves them and, being alkaline, resists materially in arresting decay by neutralizing the acids of the mouth. Lactic acid is the arch enemy of the teeth.

Quickly Cures Coughs

Colds and Catarrh

If you, dear reader, could spend an hour looking over a few of the thousands of testimonials that we have on file, you would not go on suffering from Catarrh, that disgusting disease that will surely snap your vitality and weaken your entire system if allowed to continue. You would have just as much faith in HYOMEI as we have, and we have so much confidence in it's wonderful curative virtue that it is sold the country over under a positive guarantee to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, coughs and colds or money back.

No stomach doing when you breathe HYOMEI. Just pour a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, and breathe it in. It is mighty pleasant to use; it opens up those stuffed-up nostrils in two minutes, and makes your head feel as clear as a bell in a short time. Breathe HYOMEI and let the catarrh germs. It's the only way to cure catarrh. It's the only way to get rid of that constant hacking, snuffing and spitting. A complete HYOMEI outfit, which includes a bottle of HYOMEI and a hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1.00. If you already own a Hyomei inhaler you can get an extra bottle of HYOMEI for 50c. Sold by the Peoples Drug Store Gettysburg, Pa.

The other day in passing through eastern Washington the writer noticed what seemed to be a sort of dust storm on the landscape at some distance, the cause of the disturbance not being in evidence. As the train advanced and a view was had from a different angle a "dry" farmer, harrowing with a six horse outfit, proved to be the kicker up of the big cloud of dust. To the farmer used to pastures and roadsides clad in blue grass and tilled soil held firmly down by surface moisture the dry farming condition referred to would be strange and distasteful perhaps, but to offset the drawbacks of dust and summer drought are ideal ripening and harvesting conditions—no hail, no smut, no rust, no floods.

That prepotency is quite as largely an individual matter as of breeding family and pedigree is nicely shown in some observations which Professor Eckles has made at the Missouri Agricultural college. He found that one of five Jersey bulls in the college herd raised the average annual production of his daughters above their mothers 2,545 pounds of milk and 110 pounds of butter fat, while the daughters of another bull averaged only five pounds more than their mothers. The results in these two instances are striking, and the more so because the bull which made the above exceptional showing was sired by the second, whose daughters showed so little improvement over their dams.

A bright young farmer whom the writer ran across a few days ago wished to get a start in the pure bred horse business. It happened to be Percherons, that might have been any other desirable breed suited to a given purpose. He attended a sale of blooded horses at some distance from his home and picked up one of the brood mares offered. The mare is in foal, and this means that in the spring he will have two blooded horses instead of one, and if the youngster is a filly it will mean two producers, while if the foal is of the male persuasion and possesses individually and merit the animal will probably be worth even more. This method of getting a start is an excellent one not only in the case of horses, but also for cattle, sheep and hogs.

MEXICAN REFORM MAY BRING PEACE

Compromise Arranged Between Diaz and Rebel Leaders.

WAS PLANNED IN NEW YORK

Limantour Said to Have Effected Agreement With Insurrectos Which Will End the Revolt.

New York, March 17.—The sudden departure from New York of Mr. Limantour, the Mexican Minister of Finance, after a week of conferences and negotiations, the precise nature of which had not hitherto been clear, is now explained by the understanding that he has succeeded in effecting a tentative plan by which substantial reforms are expected to be immediately put in force by the Mexican government and the leading insurrectos to aid in restoring peace.

The presence at the Hotel Astor of Mr. Madero, the father of the "provisional president" of the rebels, together with three of his sons, the fact that Limantour has been, through three generations, the confidential adviser of the Madero family, the fact that Limantour and the senior Madero have been in conference, while important messages have been going back and forth from the finance minister to Mexico City, added significance to the situation.

While in Paris, before he left for New York, Limantour declared in an interview his belief in the need of a number of reforms to meet the just wishes of the Insurrectos. When leaving he said:

"Mistakes have been made, perhaps some of them serious, but this fact is not peculiar to Mexico. Many reforms have been brought about in recent years. Others of even greater importance are under way and may be made public in the near future."

After his conference with Francisco Madero, Sr., Mr. Limantour received a long telegram from Mexico City, which he regarded as sufficient to warrant him in immediately setting out for the capital of his country.

The Maderos were asked a number of pointed questions. Terms could not be perfected, they said, without the co-operation of their confreres in the field. They expressed their distrust of any promises that the Mexican government might make, and said it would be impossible to perfect negotiations, if it were to be made a condition precedent that they should first lay down their arms, since that would mean that the leaders would be hanged as a preliminary measure and the reforms never carried out.

"The Insurrectos," they said, "demand radical reforms and a thorough change in the personnel of the administration by having fair elections."

Simultaneously a dispatch from Mexico announces that President Diaz, in a conference with a number of citizens of Metztlitan, assured them that he was adopting certain of Limantour's suggestions of reforms, among them the buying up of great estates and the selling of them at cheap rates to the people. Mr. Limantour bears with him a full exposition of the demands of the insurrectionists, which he hopes will be accepted by the Mexican government and made the basis of peace.

MEXICO RETAINS CAPTIVES

Request of Release of Blatt and Converse Met by Denial.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—The request of the United States government to the government of President Diaz for the release of Blatt and Converse, two American sympathizers of the revolutionists, who were captured, according to the American theory, on American soil, has so far merely drawn from the Mexican embassy a repetition, word for word, of its first categorical denial that the capture was made on American territory.

Blatt and Converse were captured on undisputed American land at a point on the Rio Grande opposite Guadalupe, Chihuahua, according to the state department. The scene of capture, state department officials assert, does not lie within the Chamizal zone, which forms part of the city of El Paso, Tex., and the ownership of which is now the subject of arbitration between the United States and Mexico.

Where the men were arrested the Rio Grande has shifted its course at various times. This fact, it is pointed out, however, does not raise any question of boundary in connection with the case, as the scene, as placed by the department, is sufficiently removed from the line to establish it in the jurisdiction of the United States.

The Mexican government, it is said, before answering the requests of the state department to liberate the two men, will obtain further information as to the exact point of capture from the boundary commissioners of the two countries.

SEVEN LAKE SAILORS PERISH

Drowned as They Attempted to Reach Safety After Leaving Wrecked Tug.

Cleveland, O., March 17.—Seven lives have been lost and a fishing tug is at the bottom of Lake Erie as a result of the gale which swept the lakes.

The tug Silver Spray, of Erie, Pa., went down off this harbor. The crew, consisting of six men and a boy, took to the tug's lifeboat and rowed for the shore, but were dashed on the breakwater and drowned. Several frozen bodies have been recovered.

The tug Castnet picked up fragments of a lifeboat and four oars. It was evident that the men had left the Silver Spray, probably as the foundered, and endeavored to make their way ashore in the lifeboat. Unable to reach the opening in the breakwater, the lifeboat was driven upon the rocks and smashed to pieces.

Muree, who is said by government officials to have obtained at least $500,000 from confiding investors in "get-rich-quick" schemes in the last few years, was convicted here of using the mails to defraud. Judge Hough sentenced him to serve three years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Child's Skeleton Found in Chimney

Flesh-Forming Food

When you buy a package of Samose, the great flesh forming food, weigh yourself and see how much you gain in the first week's use. The People's Drug Store will tell of many of their customers who a month or so ago were thin, pale and haggard, but who are now, through the use of Samose, plump, strong and happy. They have seen so many instances of the wonderful power of Samose to restore the weak and sick, to strengthen and health, and to make good natural flesh that they give their personal guarantee with every package of Samose they sell to refund the money if it does not prove satisfactory.

Samose is a pure preparation, and can be used with absolute confidence by the most delicate. It gives remarkable results with children who are weak and run down and without appetite. It builds up the thin, pale, puny girl and woman to perfect plumpness and health. It is the only flesh-forming food of its kind and in addition, it strengthens every organ of the body, restoring strength and health to the whole system.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL SWEEP BY FLAME

St. Charles College at Ellicott City, Md., Burned.

LOSS PLACED AT $300,000

Fire Spread Rapidly, and Within an Hour the Entire Building Was a Mass of Ruins.

Ellicott City, Md., March 17.—Fire completely destroyed St. Charles college, a preparatory institution for the Catholic priesthood. The flames spread so rapidly that within an hour after the fire started nothing was left but the four walls.

The contents of the building were lost. These included most of the effects of the students, numbering more than 200, and of the professors, of whom there were twenty or thirty. St. Charles college was one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the country. The building was of stone standing on a high hill, about five miles west of Ellicott City.

Driven by a brisk wind, the fire rapidly ate its way into the main building. The fire apparatus at Ellicott City responded to a telephone call for assistance, and many farmers and others who were attracted by the blaze hurried to the aid of the firemen.

Many noted men have been graduated from the institution, including Cardinal Gibbons, who was graduated in 1857.

The loss is estimated at $300,000. Insurance, $175,000. The college authorities at once began making arrangements for the return of the students to their homes or their transfer to other institutions.

St. Charles college, at Ellicott City, Md., is one of the best known institutions for the preparation of young men for the priesthood in this country. It is conducted by priests of the Society of St. Sulpice, which originated in France, and the members of which devote themselves exclusively to the training of youth and young men for the priesthood.

Residing in the college are about 230 students and a score or more of professors—Sulpician priests. The late Father John B. Tabb, the famous poet, was a teacher there for many years.

The students were from all parts of the United States, and receive their classical training, and are subject to such moral discipline as is deemed advantageous for young men of their calling.

$80,000 Fire at Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., March 17.—Fire which started in the Mount Zion church, on Alcaniz street, destroyed the church, the Southern Hotel and eight frame buildings, and for a time threatened the business district of Pensacola. The loss is more than $80,000.

FRAUD IN NON-CONTEST VOTE

Good Government League Gets Busy in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 17.—More than one hundred citizens of New Orleans have been summoned to appear before the grand jury to testify as to alleged frauds in the election last week for a justice of the Louisiana supreme court.

A curious feature is that Judge W. B. Somerville, who was elected, had no opposition.

The fight is being made by the Good Government league against alleged "ring politics," and it is alleged that ballot boxes were "stuffed" and other irregularities practiced in order to maintain the voting strength of certain wards and politicians.

Wolves Frighten Negroes.

Muncie, Ind., March 17.—The suburb of Whitely, inhabited mostly by colored people, is in a state of great excitement because of the presence of three wolves which escaped from McCulloch park. The wolves stay in a dense thicket during the daytime, and at night raid the hen-coops of the Whitelyites, scaring men, women and children nearly out of their wits.

$6,000,000 Cut by Light Bulb Trust.

Washington, March 17.—As the first direct result of the government's anti-trust suit against the so-called "electric lamp trust," the department of justice has received intimations that the prices of all electric light bulbs will be reduced 33 1/3 per cent. all over the United States. By such a cut those who buy the electric lamps will save more than $6,000,000 a year.

Crowd Sees Suicide.

Raleigh, N. C., March 17.—Henry H. Powell, a hotelkeeper, committed suicide in the crowded Union station by shooting, after firing wildly, one bullet entering the arm and shoulder of a friend with whom he had been talking. There was shrieking and great excitement among the crowd. Temporary insanity was the cause.

HOW CHRONIC COUGHS
Are Being Cured by Vinol—An Account of One Case.
New Haven, Conn.—"I was troubled with a most persistent chronic cough for a long time and had tried so many remedies and prescriptions without benefit that I was discouraged. I was persuaded by my friends to try Vinol. I must say that I had little confidence, but I made up my mind to give it a fair trial. Before I finished my first bottle of Vinol I commenced to notice an improvement in my general condition. After taking the second bottle, my cough left me, and must say I never felt better in my life—all due to the use of Vinol. I can also recommend Vinol to anyone in a run down condition as the best possible remedy." (Name furnished on request.)
It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient in curing chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system. Vinol contains no oil and tastes good.
Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, proprietor, Gettysburg, Pa.

THAT GOLD MINE
By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

"Abner Day, you are an old fool! You don't know enough to come in when it rains!"
Abner Day, farmer, had heard these words hundreds of times in the fifteen years since he had married the Widow Winters, and his reply had always been the same:
"Waal, some folks are born that way and can't help it."
On a portion of Abner's farm was a range of hills. It was a limestone ridge, but there was a legend that gold had been found there years before—a nugget of gold as big as a teacup. That legend never died. When other news was scarce it was brought to the front, and it was generally believed in. Abner's grandfather had meant to open the hills some day in search of other nuggets. So had his father. So had he. The trouble was to find time. There were plowing and dragging and planting and hoeing and reaping, and he never got a day to himself.
The widow began to poke at him as soon as married, but it did no good. She would go on to tell how many tons of gold were probably hidden away in those hills and how, if dug out, they could have the clock cleaned, a new door to the shed and the cellar stairs repaired.
"I'll get around to it some day, Sarah," he would reply.
"But why not tomorrow?"
"Mebbe I can."
But he didn't. His farm work interfered. As he finished his morning meal the wife would say:
"Now, Abner, that gold mine today. You can dig half a ton of it as well as not, and we need new flutrons and a washboard."
"Yes, I know."
As the day passed and he sat down to supper she would ask:
"Dig any gold today, Abner?"
"Nope. I had other things to see to."
Of course the gold mine legend was gossip for many miles around. Once a month at least some one came along and wanted to dig on shares. They would see the wife first and she would readily agree. All she wanted was that a lawyer should draw up the agreement so that it would hold water. She had been cheated by a lightning rod man once and she didn't propose to be anybody's victim again. She kept a corner of the cellar cleaned out to store the gold in, but it was never used. The stranger would go down into the field and talk with Abner and after he had wined himself he would hear the farmer say:
"These taters has got to be hoed, and you come around some other time."
"But don't you want to be a rich man?"
"It would be kinder nice."
"You could go to Europe."
"Yaas."
"You could build a fine house and have your carriage and servants."
"I see."
"Perhaps you'd be elected governor."
"Shoo."
"And I'll have a lawyer draw up the contract and bring it here tomorrow to be signed. Digging will begin at once. Within a week!"
"Yes, I know, but these taters!"
It was always so, and when Abner scuffed up to the house at sundown it was to find his wife in the sulks or in tears, and she generally ended up with:
"And if you don't go to digging the first thing in the morning I will."
Think of it—fifteen years of poking and not a hole made in the hillside! The ex-widow must have been a patient, determined woman to stand it. But stand it she did. She would conquer or die. One day, after her many disappointments, she fell ill. The doctor pronounced it typhoid fever, and she became a very sick woman. At times when she was out of her head she would babble about that gold mine. At length, to prevent further worry, the M. D. advised Abner to go to digging and ease the mind of the patient.
"But I've got to plow out corn tomorrow," was protested.
"Never mind your corn. You get a couple of men and open those hills or you'll soon be a widower."
"Do you think it'll be safe to have several tons of gold around?"
"Quite so. When I call again I want to see you at work."
In a lucid interval the patient was told that digging was to begin. She was very ill, but she braced up enough to say:
"Tell Abner that if he finds any old plow points or wagon tires mixed up with the gold to throw 'em one side. He's an awfully careless man."
Abner and his hired man dug and dug and dug. They dug here and they dug there, and people came for ten miles around to see them throw out shovels of gold. But there was no gold. There was neither gold nor silver nor copper nor iron. There was limestone, but nothing else—nothing but a petrified hickory ax handle. When this was found the patient had passed the crisis of her fever and was mending. Abner was permitted to go to her bedside and exhibit his find.
"What is it?" she asked.
"A petrified ax handle."
"Didn't you find the petrified ax blade to go with it?"
"Nope."
"But why not?"
"Didn't dig long enough, I guess."
"Abner Day, you are an old fool! You don't know enough to come in when it rains!"

Then He Fled.
A too convivially inclined young clubman was introduced at a reception to a clever society woman whom he understood in some hazy fashion to be a great artist. She was not an artist, nor had she ever made any attempt to be. But the young man, whose wits were apt to go woolgathering at times, thought she was, and he was very anxious to make a sufficiently pretty speech to her.
He murmured the usual conventionalities when he was presented and "You paint, don't you? So many people have told me about it," he then said ingratiatingly.
The young woman stared at him, looked him severely in the eyes, let her glance fall on every feature of his perplexed face, glared her indignation, and then she spoke.
"If I do," she remarked icily, "at least I don't make a mistake and put it on my nose."—Philadelphia Times.
Discontent.
The landsman through a stormy street And shades of night was going.
The ground was paved with shifting sleet.
The wintry wind was blowing.
"Heaven pity grant and help," said he, "To those who live upon the sea!"
The sailor clinched a trembling mast Mid mountains round him flowing.
While through the darkness thick and fast The wintry wind was blowing.
"Heaven save the landsman now," he said, "With chimneys toppling round his head!"
But when the world grew mild once more This tar, despondent growing,
Said, "If I could but walk ashore,
Though all the winds were blowing!"
The landsman thought, "Though storms there be,
I would that I could sail the sea!"
—Will Carleton.
Going the Other Way.
A St. Louis prelate is credited with this story, told by him at a recent dinner:
The head of one of the big trusts arrived at the gate of heaven and, as usual, found St. Peter on watch there. Rather pompously the trust magnate said:
"Pardon, is heaven here?"
"It is," said St. Peter. "Step right into the elevator."
After waiting for what seemed a long time the trust president said:
"I beg your pardon, but when does this elevator go up?"
"It doesn't go up," said the saint. "It goes down as soon as I get a load."
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
A Cutlery Salute.
Discipline aboard men-of-war belonging to tropical countries is not as strict as that obtaining on the vessels of colder countries. Indeed, in some instances it is very lax.
The Defense, a Haitian naval vessel, was lying in the harbor of Port au Prince. One day a mess cook for some reason cleaned about a peck of knives and forks on the gun deck, and being suddenly called away and not wishing to spend time to go to the galley, he seized the mess pot full of knives and forks and stuck it in the muzzle of the ten inch gun, putting the rampon in after it. About an hour afterward the admiral came aboard, and as the gun was loaded with blank cartridge they used it to fire a salute.
It happened that the gun was aimed toward the town and almost point blank at the Grand hotel. The guests had assembled on the porch to witness the ceremonies, when they were saluted with a rain of knives and forks, which stuck against the wooden walls like quills on a porcupine and drove the startled sightseers in a mad head over heels scramble indoors in fear of a possible shower of pots and pans and dishes.
A Quaint Introduction.
An old Missourian recalls the quaint speech with which an old Federal soldier once introduced General James Shields to a Missouri audience. The introduction included a high tribute to Stonewall Jackson's generalship. Said the old Union soldier:
"Friends and Fellow Citizens—Allow me to introduce General James Shields, a citizen of two countries, a hero of two wars, general in two armies, a senator from two states and the man who came nearer whipping Stonewall Jackson than any other man ever did," and here, looking around and seeing no ladies in the audience, he added, "But didn't do it by a d—d sight!"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
Made a Great Hit.
A well known ventriloquist was invited to give a performance at a big institution in connection with some charity, and he heard that steps were being taken to insure for him a large yet critical audience, who would be close enough to watch his every movement. The night came, the attendants carried on three "lay" figures on chairs, and the ventriloquist received a great ovation from those assembled. His performance was unusually brilliant, and notwithstanding the quips and songs which he went through his muscles showed no evidences of his art. The changes of voice were marvelous, and the astonished crowd at the close of the exhibition gave him a rousing cheer. Again and again they called him back, while he expressed his pleasure by innumerable bows. At last the cheering ceased and the artist was permitted to retire. Hardly had he done so when the three "lay" figures got up from their chairs and walked off the stage. The ventriloquist had employed three friends to impersonate his usual mechanical figures, and he had tricked every one of his audience.
